

Plan for the future

2018-19

The growth of every educational institution can be measured in terms of its academic progression of its students, the professional development of its faculty and its vision for institutional progression. Even as our institution moves forward, it does so, giving due importance to its legacy and dreams of building an institution that empowers its students and faculty. Acknowledging our depth to the learnings of the past, the new trajectory of the institution, is inspired by dreams to create a vibrant teaching learning environment.

In our plans for the future we propose that the teaching learning environment is strengthened in terms of quality that isn't restricted to the classroom alone but includes a variety of activities. Though our institution functions with the constraints of the overarching curricular framework provided by our parent University, it exercises its relative autonomy, by creating enabling and empowering experiences for the students through add on courses. Our institution proposes to add to the plethora of the certificate and diploma courses already available for our students.

The teaching learning processes at SPMC are student centric, interactive and innovative. Our departments organize diverse enrichment activities for its faculty and students. Student learning needs will be further strengthened through a stronger tutorial system that incorporates space for remedial and accelerated teaching and learning. Our linkages with renowned resource persons from diverse fields will be leveraged to empower our student and faculty alike. This will help build new competencies and provide exposure to new pedagogic approaches. An academically enriched and empowering learning environment will further accentuate our institutions growth. In accordance with the national mission of skill development for youth, we propose to foster skill development of each of our students through goals of entrepreneurship and developing vocational skills.

SPMC impacts the lives of its students in a myriad of ways, ways that are over and above academic learning. Environmental consciousness and social responsibility are two of the key objectives of our institution. It is our aim to help them acquire abilities of socially responsible individuals. In this context, SPMC proposes to expand the eco club of our institution, in order to enable our students to understand their environment – social and natural, so that they can help it evolve positively. Environmentally impactful practices are the overarching goals of the Eco club and in this context we propose to further develop the paper recycling unit so that waste paper is utilised and the IQAC objective of less paper campus can be realised by its student fraternity.

Inclusive Education and Women empowerment two important goals of a socially sensitive academic institution. The Equal opportunity cell, North East cell and Family and Child Centre are all focussed on creating an enabling and empowering environment for the less advantaged and marginalised sections of our society. With great sensitivity, these societies, are enabling our marginalised students carve a new empowered identity for themselves that overrides any sense of inferiority and disability. Institutionally its our objective to further strengthen the inclusive environment for those who have been marginalised.

Technologically enabled environment is the crux of an institution that is oriented towards the future. SPMC has its eyes firmly turned towards this goal. Our institution is desirous that our Faculty and students increasingly make discerning use of technology, in accessing knowledge from best institutions across the world and from Swayam Portal in the near future. The knowledge from these sources will be integrated in a structured manner to supplement the existing courses. These initiatives have immense possibilities of learning inherent in them. SPMC is aware of its responsibility towards the faculty. Enabling their professional development and facilitating the research ethos of the institution is an area that will be focussed upon in the years to come.
